

Nautilus Minerals Launches CARES Website

November 13, 2008 – Nautilus Minerals Inc. (TSX & AIM: NUS) is proud to announce the launch of our CARES website. CARES stands for Community Accountable, Responsible Environmentally and Safe. The CARES site houses all relevant information regarding our Community, Environmental, Safety and Health activities and is intended to increase transparency and ease of access to our activities. The CARES website also allows us to be reached directly by NGO's, governments and community organizations that seek to learn more about Nautilus Minerals. As Nautilus Minerals launches the seafloor resource industry, we have the opportunity to get things right from the start. The CARES site reflects our ongoing commitment to develop deep ocean minerals with reduced social disturbance, footprint and safety risks to those associated with land-based mining.

We have made a commitment and are expending a huge effort to implement strategies in our equipment and operations with the objective of minimizing impact to the environment and local communities and safeguarding the health of employees and stakeholders.

The current CARES site is simply the start of an initiative which we expect to grow and expand as we move towards production in 2010. Please visit us at www.cares.nautilusminerals.com
